“ I have fond memories of Ray, and those memories are a blessing. On rare occasions I would get to visit with Ray and tell stories. I have seen all of the fine qualities that so many other people have praised Ray for over the years. Ray is a true man of God. Ray was a true friend and I will miss him. My deepest condolences to the family, you are in my heart and prayers.

“ I can not think of anyone that has made myself and my wife more welcome and more like family. Met Ray shortly after moving to the area and being a friend of one of his sons seemed in Ray's mind enough to make you a member of the family. I did not realize how much so until Ray invited me to a family reunion. I told him that I would try to go but did not because I just assumed that he was just being friendly. Later when I found out how hurt he was that I did not show up that I realized that he truly wanted me there. Fortunately there was another and of course I showed up. Lots of Holiday family meals and domino games have passed since then. I will never be able to replace Ray in my life. My only regret is that my Dad did not get to know Ray because they had so much in common. Note to Ray, "just because Dad can't remember whose down it is do not assume the he can't count by fives". Hopefully dominoes are allowed in Heaven. Carl Alls

“ Uncle Ray was very special. I was amazed at his song-writing talents, and will never forget how he played his guitar and sang to us bus riders on the last day of school. Truly a good man.

“ Ray would always ask “could you believe that” when he was astonished by something. This constant curiosity and practical resourcefulness inspired me. He was the most welcoming person when you would visit his home. Ray would not let you get by without a hug and a conversation when you visited. He was always genuinely grateful for even the smallest acts when you helped him. I only knew Ray for ten years of his full life, but he and I quickly became buddies. I will never meet another person like him and will miss him.

“ We first met Ray back in 1970, we, my dad Roy and uncle Lester was hunting in southern Colorado, we were setting up camp and needed a tool for something. Ray and his friends were camping near by in a converted school bus. My dad ask me to go and see if they had the tool we needed. As I walked up to the door of the bus I was greeted with a resounding “COME IN THIS HOUSE” they all came down to our camp and thus started a 20 year friendship. Unfortunately we lost Lester and Roy too soon and now Ray but the memory's we shared will always be special.
